AMUSEMENTS.

The most notable production of many seasons was that of George H. Boker's play. "Francesca da Rimin!" as enacted by Otis Skinner and his associates at the cademy last night. The play is the reatest ever written by an American playwright. Its revival is a most praise-worthy proceeding on the part of Mr. Skinner. There is no actor in this country whose ideals are higher, or who reaches nearer their attainment. As a reader of blank verse he is head and shoulders above all his fellows, and his art has broadened and mellowed until to-day he is more worthy to wear the mantle of Edwin Booth than any of his contemporaries. His Lanclotto is a tragic creation of great depth and power. It is not only impressive, but real, human, a creature intelligible to every heart, yet restless under the baneful shadow of an awful and resistless fate, a misshapen plaything of remorseless destiny. It was a night of triumph for Otis Skinner, and the applause of the audience was unstinted. The support was excellent.
